

Miller & Rhoads FRIDAY REMNANT DAY It's Economy Day

All through the store where there are short and broken lots of goods that need selling. COME! Limited quantities forbid the mentioning of most of the biggest bargains on sale. It is our policy to surprise rather than disappoint.

A Sale of Housekeepers' Necessities!

"Moving Days," when housekeepers take inventory of what was broken or lost, or of the additional articles their new surroundings demand, is the time when they feel the need for items like these.

The sale is equally as interesting to young couples just beginning to housekeep, and to others whose kitchen supplies need replenishing.

In every good home there's a need for such useful kitchen items as these:

REYNOLDS ARRESTED FOR PHILADELPHIA POLICE

Said to Be Wanted on Charge of Theft of Medical Books.

WAS SALESMAN FOR COMPANY

Accused Man Says Matter Can Be Settled Without Court Procedure. Will Be Held for Pennsylvania Authorities.

CHARLES H. REYNOLDS, alias C. E. Lee

Charles H. Reynolds, alias C. E. Lee, alias C. E. Lee, was yesterday arrested on Main Street by Detective Sergeant Bailey and Wiltshire and Police Sergeant Zimmer, charged with being a fugitive from justice in Pennsylvania. The man is said to be wanted there for the theft of $500 worth of medical books from Graham & Co., of Philadelphia. He will be arraigned in the Police Court to-day, and the case will probably be continued several days, to allow representatives of that State to reach the city with the necessary papers for his return.

Reynolds was taken to the First Precinct Police Station after his arrest. He was visited there several times during the late afternoon and early night by his wife, who brought with her their eight-month-old child. The police were warned to keep a careful watch over Reynolds, as it was feared that he might attempt suicide. Detectives Bailey and Wiltshire have been on the trail of the man for several days, and ran him to earth yesterday afternoon. He is a salesman for Graham & Co., and was on the road, at Reading, Pa., when the alleged theft occurred.

HARRIS TELLS HOW BOOKS WERE SHIPPED

According to E. S. Harris, a special agent of the company, Reynolds sent in a number of bogus orders to his firm, and secured the delivery of the books to himself at Reading. They were then shipped by Reynolds, who used the name of E. S. Harris, to Washington, where C. E. Lee was to secure them. Reynolds is alleged to have secured them in that city under the name of Lee, and to have ordered them forwarded to himself in this city. Before they could be shipped he came to Richmond, where he has been for several days. Through some inadvertence, the books were not shipped promptly from Washington, and he still is there.

Reynolds moved his residence frequently after he arrived in this city, according to the detectives, first stopping in a rooming house downtown, and later moving to a house on North Laurel Street. He was living at this address when arrested.

It will be held by the local police until definite word is received from the authorities in Pennsylvania. Reynolds is in his cell at the First Station, said last night that, although the retail value of the books was placed at $500, the cost of their manufacture was considerably less, and that he thought the entire matter would be settled without court procedure.

Case Is Continued.

Polly Johnson, the negro woman arrested by Detective Sergeant Reynolds, charged with stealing a $100 diamond ring from Miss Katherine S. Sweeney, will be given a hearing in the Police Court on October 27, according to a decision of Police Justice Crutchenfeld yesterday.

Richmond Office Asked to Aid in Securing Crew of American-Born Sailors.

NAVY DEPARTMENT IS ACTIVE

Using Its Influence to Get Men to Take Vessels Carrying Surgeons, Nurses and Supplies to Battlefields of Europe.

THE SHIP IS THE HAMBURG-AMERICAN

liner Red Cross, formerly the Hamburg, which was loaned to the American Red Cross Society for the purpose of transporting surgeons, nurses and supplies to the battlefields of Europe. The liner is ready to sail, but the English and French governments have questioned the neutrality status of the vessel, which has among its engine force, stewards and sailors, a number of native Germans, who have taken out their first, but not their full naturalization papers.

Captain Armstrong Rust, U. S. N., retired, is in command of the ship. He has had a conference with Secretary Bryan, and the Navy Department has been asked to assist in getting a crew.

ADMINISTRATORS ASK FREE HAND WITH MONEY

Fund of $100,000 for Opening and Widening Streets Is Now Tied Up.

WOULD HASTEN IMPROVEMENT

Seek to Use Bond-Issue Money to Carry Forward Projects for Which It Was Set Apart Some Time Ago—Plan Extensive Work.

THE ADMINISTRATIVE BOARD

passed and forwarded to the City Council, through the Mayor, a resolution asking that body to authorize the board to expend the $100,000 appropriated for opening and widening streets, for the purpose of carrying out the acquisition of property made necessary by the opening and widening of streets. The Council is asked also to permit the board to devote part of this appropriation to the payment of such damages as may arise in carrying out these improvements.

It is the purpose of the board in asking to be designated the authority to expend the $100,000 appropriation, to eliminate the delay that now attends every proceeding for the opening and widening of any street. In order to secure such an improvement it is necessary now to introduce and have passed a separate ordinance for each case, and the board is made available by the recent $1,500,000 bond issue. The bond issue ordinance does not name the authority which is to direct its expenditure. As the situation stands, this money can be expended for the opening and widening of streets only through special ordinances authorizing such work and carrying appropriations for the purpose.

The payment of damages arising from the opening and widening of streets, the board holds, should come from this fund. In view of the fact that all improvements of this character are now exclusively under the board's direction, the board is of the belief that it should be named as the authority to have in charge the expenditure of the $100,000 appropriation provided for the opening and widening of streets, by the recent bond issue.

Co-Operation on the Part

Of officials and citizens has done much to the building of permanent highways through our country. Every day we note references to the completion of certain sections of road, and the great benefits derived therefrom. SEATON CALLS MEETING OF BUILDING COMMITTEE

Will Confer With Advisory Architect on Program for Competition.

BOSSEM CONSULTS WITH JUDGES

Spends Day in City Gathering Data on Space Needed for Courts and Clerks' Offices—Discusses Withdrawal of Prizes.

COMMITTEE HAS BEEN

NEWLY APPOINTED

The committee held its last meeting on August 28. Since that time it has been out of existence with the old council, and has been reconstituted by the authority of a joint resolution passed by the newly elected Council of Commissioners on August 28. The members of the old committee, left a vacancy which was filled by the appointment of Councilman Claude L. Bateman, of the Law Ward. The other members of the committee are Councilman C. A. Seaton, chairman, and Councilmen R. E. Peters and C. C. Jones, and Aldermen Barton C. Grady, Joseph E. Powers and W. H. Adams.

At its last meeting the committee adopted a motion directing Mr. Bossem to confer with the judges of the several courts that will be housed in the new building, and draft the program originally prepared to show the space that will be needed by each of the courts, and the City Circuit Court, which was found by the committee to be inadequate and similar shortcomings were found as to the other courts. A direct consultation with the judges themselves was in order to dispose of the matter safely.

WITHOUT AUTHORITY

TO PAY PRIZE MONEY

The committee at the meeting on August 28 discovered for the first time that it was utterly without power to guarantee the payment of any prize awarded for designs submitted in the architects' competition. Under the Mr. Bossem plan, the committee undertook to pay three prizes of $1,000, $500 and $250, respectively, for the first, second and third best designs submitted.

Assistant City Attorney Anderson pointed out to the committee that the resolution from which it derived its powers gave it no authority to establish such prizes and that their payment could only be secured through a special appropriation by the Council.

BOSSEM FAVORS

PAYMENT OF PRIZES

"I am afraid if we remove the stimulus of the prize money we will materially injure the competition," said Mr. Bossem, last night, discussing the amendment. "It is essential that we hold out the promise of some reward other than the reward of getting the contract. It seems to me, since the committee is without power to guarantee the payment of any prizes, that it should by all means offer to recommend to the Council that these prizes be paid."

WANTS GOOD BUILDING

WHATEVER IT COSTS

Mr. Bossem was inclined to doubt the wisdom of the committee's action in striking from the program the section binding the city to pay certain parts of the total fee to the successful architect before the letting of the contract for the construction of the building. Colonel Anderson called the committee's attention to difficulties that might be encountered in such a procedure, pointing to the universal practice of the several courts in paying no part of the architect's fee until a satisfactory contract for the erection of the building is signed.

AFTER ALL, WHAT THE CITY

is a good building—one that it will be proud of—not a building planned to cost a certain iron-bound, inflexible sum. When you lay down the rule that the architect shall receive no pay until a responsible contractor undertakes to construct the building for the price named by the architect, you invite your architect to shave his designs and skimp his specifications to force them to conform to a certain fixed price. He has to do it in self-defense, to earn his fee. It is not a question of an architect's fee. It is a question of a suitable building for the city and the accommodation of the people from this point of view, has little to recommend it."

GIRL'S JAWBONE BROKEN AS MOTOR CARS CRASH

Leo Kidd, Driving High-Powered Automobile, Runs Into Taxicab.

KIDD PLACED UNDER ARREST

Pauline Thorp Taken to Virginia Hospital, Where It Was at First Feared That Her Skull Had Been Fractured.

Leo Kidd, driving a seven-passenger automobile west on Grace Street, struck a taxicab of the Richmond Transfer Company at Belvidere and Grace Streets shortly before 1 o'clock this morning. A girl, who Kidd said was Louise Price, of Twenty-fifth Street, but who was later identified as Pauline Thorp, of 1107 1-2 South Main Street, sustained a broken jawbone and several lacerations of the scalp. It was at first thought that her skull was fractured, but Ambulance Surgeon Pitkowsky said early this morning that he did not think the skull had been broken. E. W. Meredith, driver of the taxicab, escaped injury, while Kidd was struck in the head by flying glass and the skin was broken in several places.

Pauline Thorp heard the crash of the machines when more than a square block away. He hurried to the scene and found Kidd talking with Meredith at the taxicab, nearly a square from where his own car was standing. The patrolman started for the scene, but was startled by sounds of growing confusion from the front yard of 612 West Grace Street. He stepped in the yard and found the girl huddled on the ground, having fallen from the taxicab. He discovered a young woman lying on the ground.

AID IS SUMMONED

FROM NEARBY HOSPITAL

Porter hurried across the street to St. Elizabeth's Hospital and summoned emergency surgeons. Dr. Williams of the hospital corps, hurried out and had the girl taken into the hospital, where emergency treatment was rendered. She was found in the yard of Dr. Pitkowsky's, who arrived in a few minutes, and was taken to the Virginia Hospital.

Kidd disappeared from the scene while the policeman was caring for the injured girl, but reappeared shortly afterward. He was once taken in charge by Sergeant C. M. Johnson and was sent to the Second Precinct Station House, charged with recklessly driving his automobile through the streets.

In telling his view of the accident, Kidd said that he was coming west along Grace Street, when he hit the other car. He told physician at St. Elizabeth's Hospital that he was not in the machine. Later he told Sergeant Johnson that the girl found in the yard was with him and that her name was Price. He denied all knowledge as to how she happened to be found in the yard, and that he had been where his machine had stopped, and said that she was still on the road beside him when he returned to the scene. He said that the girl and himself were alone together. A short time later he admitted that there was another man in the rear of his machine, but said that he did not know him, and was sent to the Second Precinct Station House, charged with recklessly driving his automobile through the streets.

This man disappeared, and had not been located by the police at an early hour this morning.

Meredith, driver of the taxicab, gave the police the most coherent account of the proceeding north along Belvidere, a slow rate of speed when in crossing Grace Street he saw the glare of Kidd's headlights. The machine, Meredith said, was running at least forty miles an hour, and was on the road for forty-five miles an hour, and was on him before he could make a turn to avoid being struck. The taxicab was struck on the right side of the hood and swept a distance of over twenty feet up Grace Street.

Kidd's car, its front wheels broke and its windshield smashed to bits, continued its mad dash up Grace Street, within a few feet of Fine Street, came to a stop before 612 West Grace and was found there by Patrolman Porter with all brakes off.

How the girl happened to be found in the yard is a mystery to the police. It is said, and it was impossible to find any one who had carried her there, that she was thrown from the machine. Kidd denied all knowledge of this part of the affair, and said that he had gone immediately to Dr. Oppenheimer's office to have treatment after leaving the taxicab.

Detective Sergeant John Wiley this morning entered an additional charge against Kidd. He charged the man with turning a suspicious character, suspected of feloniously injuring Pauline Thorpe. He learned that Brook stopped at Gresham Court, but was unable to locate him. The detective said the taxicab was knocked twenty-two yards by Kidd's machine, and that the touring car ran eighty-four yards before it came to a stop.

Burch Fined $100.

Among several men arraigned in the Police Court yesterday on warrants charging them with aiding and abetting their wives was W. J. Burch, who was placed under $100 security for his appearance in Justice Crutchenfeld. The case against Louis J. Poni, who was arraigned on a similar charge, was dismissed.
